MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

November 25, 2019

To the Honorable Members of
The Illinois House,
101st General Assembly:

Today, I veto House Bill 3902 from the 101st General Assembly, which would have amended the Use Tax Act, the Service Use Tax Act, the Service Occupation Tax Act, and the Retailers' Occupation Tax Act and applied a sales tax exemption for materials, parts, equipment, components, and furnishings incorporated into or upon an aircraft as part of the modification, refurbishment, completion, replacement, repair, or maintenance of a private aircraft continuously from January 1, 2010 through December 31, 2024.

My administration appreciates the hard work of the sponsors of this legislation in the House and Senate. However, I am opposed to providing a sales tax exemption to private aircraft companies. The delinquent taxes owed from Illinois' private jet companies amounts to roughly $50 million, including interest and penalties, and if House Bill 3902 became law, the state would be allowing an additional $10 million per year in tax credits through 2024.

Giving private aircraft companies tens of millions of dollars in past due tax forgiveness is not the right fiscal decision for our state as we face billions in debt associated with unpaid bills, a multi-billion-dollar structural deficit, and critical needs in schools and public safety services.

My administration is committed to growing Illinois' economy, spurring competition, and creating jobs in every region of the state. I've taken several steps to accomplish this objective, with the strong bipartisan support of the General Assembly in efforts that extend beyond any single industry.

· Together, we enacted the historic $45 billion Rebuild Illinois plan, which will support and create hundreds of thousands of jobs, fix our long-neglected roads and bridges, invest in higher education and bring broadband to every part of the state.

· We also extended the Research and Development Tax Credit, helping manufacturers who are seeking certainty in the long-term.

- We expanded and made permanent the Manufacturers' Purchase Credit, allowing companies to receive a sales tax exemption for machinery or equipment used to manufacture personal property for retail sale or lease.
- We eliminated the Corporate Franchise Tax, which affects every business operating in the state of Illinois – small businesses most of all.
- We created a new apprenticeship tax credit, which will cover up to $3,500 of qualified education expenses incurred by employers on behalf of a qualifying apprentice.
- We expanded a set of tax credits for relocating and expanding businesses through the Blue Collar Jobs Act.

Most importantly, we are working to balance our budget and to provide a stable fiscal environment upon which to build a thriving economy. Allowing this past due tax forgiveness to the private jet industry at this time is not in line with this vision.

Therefore, pursuant to Section 9(b) of Article IV of the Illinois Constitution of 1970, I hereby return House Bill 3902, entitled "AN ACT concerning revenue," with the forgoing objections, vetoed in its entirety.

Sincerely,

JB Pritzker

At the hour of 11:01 o'clock a.m., the House Perfunctory Session adjourned.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

HOUSE RESOLUTION 647

Offered by Representative West:

WHEREAS, Research over the last two decades in the evolving fields of neuroscience, brain science, molecular biology, public health, genomics, and epigenetics reveals that experiences in the first few years of life build changes into the biology of the human body, including the architecture of the brain; and

WHEREAS, Brain growth occurs rapidly in the first three years of a child's life and accelerates over the next ten years, slowing during the early twenties; a child's brain and body development can be impaired by certain environmental conditions, influencing the person's physical and mental health and social outcomes over their lifespan; and

WHEREAS, Adverse childhood experiences, or ACEs, are traumatic experiences occurring during childhood that have been found to have a profound effect on a child's developing brain structure and body and may result in poor health during the person's adulthood; ACEs can be physical, emotional, or sexual abuse, neglect, household dysfunction, including caregiver substance abuse, untreated mental illness or incarceration, domestic violence, or separation or divorce involving household members; and

WHEREAS, Experiencing ACEs as well as experiencing intense and prolonged stress, like community violence, without positive influences or nurturing relationships during childhood can become known as toxic stress, further affecting a child's brain development and function and leading to long-term cognitive and health impairments; and

WHEREAS, ACEs studies have also found a strong correlation between the number of ACEs and a person's risk for disease and negative health behaviors, including suicide, depression, cancer, stroke, ischemic heart disease, diabetes, autoimmune disease, smoking, substance abuse, interpersonal violence, obesity, unplanned pregnancies, lower educational achievement, workplace absenteeism, and lower wages; and

WHEREAS, Findings from the Illinois 2013 Behavioral Risk Factor Surveillance Survey (BRFSS) Illinois ACEs Response Collaborative found that almost 60% of non-institutionalized adult Illinoisans reported having at least one ACE; this number equates to almost 5 million Illinois residents; 14.2% of Illinois adults reported four or more ACEs; and

WHEREAS, BRFSS data also showed that approximately 20% of African American and Hispanic adults in Illinois reported four or more ACEs, compared to 13% of non-Hispanic whites; and

WHEREAS, The Illinois 2013 BRFSS also found that 43% of women and 48% of men reported having one to three ACEs; 15% of women and 13% of men reported experiencing four or more ACEs; and

WHEREAS, BRFSS data showed that individuals with between 1 and 3 ACEs reported their physical health was not good 12% more often and their mental health was not good 44% more often than individuals with no ACEs, and individuals with more than 4 ACEs reported their physical health was not good 65% more often and their mental health was not good 176% more often than individuals with no ACEs; and

WHEREAS, Individuals with six or more ACEs were found, on average, to live 20 years less than those individuals with zero ACEs; and

WHEREAS, Among those who misuse opioids, the individuals most likely to experience problems with addiction are those who suffered ACEs; general population surveys have estimated that 75% of individuals with substance use disorders have experienced trauma early in their lives; rates are even higher among populations seeking treatment for opioid addiction; and

WHEREAS, ACEs appear to be a root cause of many of our most challenging health and social problems; without adequate family intervention and support, they appear to be transmitted from one generation to the next, further exacerbating the poor outcomes from ACEs and toxic stress; and

WHEREAS, It is less disruptive to well-being, less costly, and more effective to positively influence the development of a child's brain than to intervene and correct negative experiences and outcomes later in life; and

WHEREAS, Trauma-informed care is an approach that can bring greater understanding and more effective ways to prevent, identify, and support and serve children, adults, families, and communities affected by ACEs, trauma, adversity, and toxic stress; and

WHEREAS, Trauma-informed care is not a therapy or an intervention but is a principle-based culture change process aimed at recognizing strengths and resiliency and helping people who have experienced trauma to overcome those issues in order to achieve personal and economic well-being; and

WHEREAS, The Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration and many other agencies and organizations provide substantial resources to better engage individuals, community based organizations, and communities across the United States in order to implement trauma-informed care; and

WHEREAS, A trauma-informed Illinois enhances the ability of children and adults to adapt, cope, and thrive despite difficult experiences, supporting the mental well-being of everyone in our State; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, BY THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE ONE HUNDRED FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF ILLINOIS, that we acknowledge that toxic stress and adverse childhood experiences can have significantly negative short-term, long-term, and generational impacts and that early interventions through trauma-informed care is the most efficient and cost effective way to combat these impacts; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Illinois State Legislature is urged to seek opportunities to enhance legislation through the science of resiliency and a trauma-informed lens and to seek funding around early intervention services for children and families that centers the principles of brain development, the intimate connection between mental and physical health, and the concepts of toxic stress and adverse childhood experiences; and be it further

RESOLVED, That suitable copies of this resolution be delivered to Governor JB Pritzker, House Speaker Michael Madigan, Senate President John Cullerton, House Majority Leader Greg Harris, Senate Minority Leader Bill Brady, and the Illinois interagency Council on Early Intervention.

WHEREAS, Native plants, unlike non-native species, are vitally important to Illinois because they are adapted to the conditions of the local environment and are the foundation of the region's biodiversity; plant species native to woodlands, prairies, and wetlands serve as a critical resource for birds, as they provide essential food and shelter and help mitigate the challenging effects of the changing climate; many species of insects have co-evolved with native plants over time and are essential food sources for birds; and

WHEREAS, Each community in Illinois can provide healthy spaces for birds by expanding or maintaining native plant habitats; such spaces will also benefit the citizens of Illinois; by simply choosing native plants for a personal garden, yard, or public space, the use of fertilizer and pesticides can be minimized, significant amounts of water can be conserved, and energy demands can be reduced, thus creating healthy communities and saving costs for households, towns, and cities; and

WHEREAS, Children with food allergies are two to four times more likely to have other related conditions such as asthma and other allergies, compared with children without food allergies; this is of great importance as children with a coexisting food allergy and asthma may be more likely to experience anaphylactic reactions to foods and be at high risk of death; and

WHEREAS, The census also plays a vital role in our nation's system of government by determining how many representatives will be sent to Congress from each state to convey our concerns and work towards a better future; the information is then used by lawmakers to prioritize allocations to the communities schools, hospitals, and infrastructures in the most need; and

WHEREAS, State, local, and tribal governments use census information for planning and allocating funds for new schools, libraries, public transportation systems, new roads and bridges, and for help in determining zoning locations for police, fire, and other first responders; and
