Speaker Manley: "The House will be in order. Members will be in their chairs. We shall be led in prayer today by Wayne Padget, the Assistant Doorkeeper. Members and guests are asked to refrain from starting their laptops, turn off all cell phones, and rise for the invocation and Pledge of Allegiance. Mr. Padget."

Assistant Doorkeeper Padget: "Let us pray. Dear heavenly Father, we lift up the leaders of our state and all those that you have set up in places of authority to rule and govern. We pray that they would rule our land and many institutions with wisdom and integrity. We pray that each one would carry out their various responsibilities with honesty for the benefit of the state. Clothe each one of them with righteousness and justice, and we pray that all selfish ambitions would be laid aside and that your plans and purposes are fulfilled for the well-being of all citizens. May your ways be known in our state and your name be lifted up in these corridors of power. Guide us into the ways of peace, justice, and truth. These things we pray, Amen."

Speaker Manley: "We will be led in the Pledge of Allegiance today by Representative Moylan."

Moylan - et al: "I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Speaker Manley: "Roll Call for Attendance. Leader Gabel is recognized for any excused absences on the Democratic side of the aisle."

Nichols: "Members, Members, Members. Everybody be cool for a second. Thank you. House Resolution #... I think it says 184 (sic-134).

WHEREAS, The members of the Illinois House of Representatives wish to recognize David A. Strother's legacy on voting rights in the State of Illinois and the United States; and

WHEREAS, David A. Strother, once widely believed to have been the first Black man to vote in the United States as a result of the addition of the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution, was certainly the first to vote in Illinois on April 4, 1870; and

WHEREAS, David Strother was born to Henry and Leah in Lexington, Missouri on August 18, 1843, the son of slaves who bought their freedom; he worked as a cook's assistant on a Mississippi steamer; he served as a civilian cook with Company G, 17th Illinois Infantry, of the Union Army during the Civil War; at the urging of 44 local area men of Troop G, he settled in El Paso; he became a barber... that's El Paso, Illinois... he became a barber and set up a chair in the corner of an insurance and justice of the peace's office in January 1864; he was soon reunited with his mother and his brother, Charles, who joined him at his new barber shop; and

WHEREAS, El Paso then operated under a special charter approved by Governor Richard Oglesby in 1867; Article XV of the U.S. Constitution was declared in effect on March 30, 1870, stating that the right of citizens to vote shall not be denied on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude; the following Monday, April 4, was El Paso's city election, held one day prior to almost all others; and

WHEREAS, David Strother, accompanied to the polls by Mayor James Wathen, was initially rebuffed by election officials unaware of the new law; after election judges were shown a copy of the amendment, he returned to the polls at the judges' behest, where apologies were made; he proceeded to cast his vote, and his brother voted soon after; and

WHEREAS, News of David Strother's historic vote was spread by Gersh Martin, El Paso's newspaper editor, who telegraphed the news to the Associated Press, and soon people all over the United States were reading about the barber who had cast the then believed first Black vote; and

WHEREAS, David Strother continued to live in El Paso for the remainder of his life, passing shortly after suffering a heart attack on March 12, 1905; his loss was keenly felt by the El Paso community, who remembered him for his generosity and gentlemanly conduct; and

WHEREAS, David Strother's vote on April 4, 1870 marked him as not only one of the first Black men to vote in the United States but also marked a milestone on the path to equality for our State and the country; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, BY THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE ONE HUNDRED THIRD GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF ILLINOIS, that we recognize David Strother's legacy on voting rights in the State of Illinois and the United States. And I'd just like to say, I think this was very important as we still have some voting to do in this state and the importance of people voting. Everybody, everybody should exercise the right to vote. And nobody should try and take the right to vote from anyone. And in this Body, we should encourage everybody in all of our districts, all of our communities to vote and never discourage. And I thought this would be a very appropriate time to read this Resolution. Right here in the State of Illinois, we had the first black man in El Paso, Illinois to vote in the United States of America. So, thank you guys for listening. I appreciate you. And as usual, I love everybody in the chamber. Peace."

Speaker Manley: "Members, we're going to be on Second Reading and we're going to move very quickly. So, be in your chairs, ready to go, or you're going to get passed up. How's that? Clerk Bolin: "House Bill 1049, a Bill for an Act concerning regulation. Second Reading of this House Bill. Amendment #1 was adopted in committee. Floor Amendment #3 is offered by Representative Mayfield."

Speaker Manley: "Representative Mayfield on Amendment 3."

Mayfield: "Thank you so much. Amendment #3 removed the opposition from the Bill."

Speaker Manley: "Representative Mayfield moves for the adoption of Floor Amendment 3 to House Bill 1049. Those in favor say 'aye'; opposed say 'nay'. In the opinion of the Chair, the 'ayes' have it. And the Amendment is adopted. Mr. Clerk, any further Amendments?"

Clerk Bolin: "No further Amendments. No Motions are filed."

Hernandez, B.: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This Bill was brought from the Humane Society and will ban the procedure of declawing cats. It is very cruel to the animal and pretty much cuts up to their knuckle... amputates, actually, that's a better term, up to their knuckle and it is very hurtful. There is a medical exemption on this as well for cats. So, if there is a cat that has a deformed claw or disease, infection, then the procedure can happen. But I... I ask for an 'aye' vote."

Speaker Manley: "Chair recognizes Representative Meier."

Meier: "Yes. Will the Sponsor yield?"

proper for these animals. There are rare cases where this is necessary. There will be cats that will be thrown outside because their owners also have medical issues. This has... this has dropped by 90 percent in the last 20 years. So, the attention it's getting is making it work for what you want. But we have to worry about these... a lot of senior citizens that can't take the risk of being scratched because if they will catch an infection in their legs, their poor circulation. I actually know a person who was scratched from their cat that for a month and half had to fight to keep their hand. So, in some cases this is very necessary. And there are pain medicines that these cats are given if this has to be done. Yes, there is. Don't nod your head. Ask a vet. How many vets have you talked to about this Bill?"

Hernandez, B.: "Several."

Meier: "A couple?"

Hernandez, B.: "More than 20, for sure."

Meier: "Oh, okay. Did they tell you the same..."

Hernandez, B.: "But not all of 1,800 of the veteran... vets association claims that there against this Bill, that's not true. There's some that have already reached out to me and saying, 'Hey, this is not what are... we stand for.'"

Meier: "Well, like I say, this is an actual problem. Because you will have cats that... that the owners can't keep in their house. They will be discarded. You know, it's being done within reason. There is medicine that can be treated. This cat would be on medicine for about one week to help with the pain and make sure there's no infection, if it has to be done. But... you think about going to your grandparent's house and how much they love their cat, and if they end up with a medical issue, that cat's got to go. And they're not sure where it's going to go. So, I urge a 'no' vote on this Bill. I believe that the public has brought enough attention to it. The majority of it is done away with. It's not like vets are out there trying to make money off of this. They're doing it only when it's really necessary for the owner or the cat. It's not something they're out there trying to fill their pockets with. And many of them have reached out to me. So, please vote 'no'."

Speaker Manley: "Chair recognizes Representative Cassidy."

Cassidy: "Thank you, Madam Speaker. To the Bill. There is nothing saying that you have right to a cat as a pet or a pet at all. And imagine the idea that you're willing to remove body parts in order to have a cat in your life. I... I just... I'm stunned at the... at the prior speaker's assertions. I do a lot of cat rescue. I work with Friends of Animal Care and Control. We foster cats. We see the harm done by people who do not adequately understand what actually is cruelty to animals. I... I am blown away that there would be opposition to... to a commonsense human and humane law. I urge a 'yes' vote."

Speaker Manley: "The Chair recognizes Representative Hauter."

Hauter: "Will the Sponsor yield?"

Hernandez, B.: "The cat itself, if the cat has a medical situation, then the cat, yes. There's not a human exemption."

Hauter: "So, just to be clear, if someone has a wound issue.. I see patients with diabetes with wound healing issues with a vascular profusion issues and they.. it's very dangerous for them to have any kind of cat scratch. And so, in that case, it's between giving up the cat, putting the cat outside, putting the cat to sleep, or declawing the cat. And so, would there be an exception if they had a wound.. if the owner had a wound healing issue?"

Hernandez, B.: "No, there is not. And I believe that if someone knows that they can't have a cat because of illness, maybe they shouldn't have cat."

Hauter: "Well, these people have had the cat for a long time and then they become elderly or their diabetes advances. To the Bill."

Speaker Manley: "To the Bill."

Hernandez, B.: "Thank you. Like I said, this is really cruel to the animal. The animal is the one that suffers. And this needs to stop. There's a lot of cats that are declawed for no reason, for no good reason, either because they don't want to maintain their claws, because they don't want to have

Speaker Manley: "Representative Cassidy."

Cassidy: "Thank you, Madam Speaker. House Bill 1591 is a product of the Dobbs Working Group. When the Dobbs decision was released, the language of the decision took aim at two very critical landmark decisions, Loving v. Virginia and Obergefell decision. Loving is the... the decision that... that repealed anti-miscegenation laws. And Obergefell was the decision that created marriage equality for the LGBTQ community. In revealing the statutes, we discovered some archaic language in our Marriage and Dissolution of Marriage Act that really have an incredibly distasteful history. Four states and Illinois, in 1915, enacted these... these prohibitions. So, for... our current law prohibits a marriage in Illinois if it is obtained here by residents of another state who do not intend to remain in Illinois and the marriage would be void in their home state. This comes out of the Uniform Law Commission in 1905, and the primary motivation behind these statutes was to prohibit interracial marriages that Illinois and most other states did not expressly prohibit. And Section 218 expressly and singularly uses the term 'intermarrying'. It is well past time to remove this archaic language from our laws, and I ask for an 'aye' vote."

or pastry program, and it was at a postgraduate level. To my knowledge, they were not affiliated with the Board of Higher Ed. Would this be a fineable institution at what you have written?"

Stuart: "It doesn't sound to me that it is and the... you know, they first go through a process of sending like a cease-and-desist letter and other entities. This is really the last step is being able to assess that fine."

Keicher: "So, who... who would be, under your Bill, who would be the ultimate determinator of whether this institution was violating the spirit of the law or not? Would it be the Board of Higher Ed? Is it an independent body? And is there any judicial process afterwards to confirm that it is or is not a finable offense?"

Stuart: "It's the IBHE that does determine that. I mean, I don't think anybody would be stopped from going through a court process and try... and claiming that the IBHE was incorrect in their determination. But the IBHE would determine that."

Keicher: "And one of my... one of my worries is that this may be out of IBHE's purview. Just with the scope of some of the certifications that are out there for different organizations. And... and my last question, I won't belabor the point. The last question I have is, the $10 thousand per violation, what is the violation? Is it a daily, is it a yearly, is it a each time you advertise, is it one time per institution?"

because that 10 thousand, again, is a cap and the fine could obviously be lower."

Stuart: "My understanding is if they do not comply with the fine, then they would not be able to operate without paying that fine. That's my understanding."

Keicher: "Okay. I think there's a bunch of gray areas here, and I'm concerned about these certificates. But this is my first blush when we started taking a look at this. I'm going to vote 'no' just because I'm worried about some of these organizations that are really out there trying to help postgraduate people get better at their craft. Windhorst: "Thank you. Representative, I think you've covered this. So, I just want to make sure I'm clear. This applies to individuals who are appointed to the nonprofit board by the township itself. Is that correct?"

Moeller: "Correct, yes. And if they serve on a board not... in an independent capacity outside of their duties as a township official, then they would be required to recuse themselves in matters that come before the board that involve the township and the nonprofit board."

Windhorst: "Thank you for that clarification."

Hoffman: "Thank you, Speaker, Ladies and Gentlemen of the House. This simply is an agreed technical change to House Bill 5049, which passed in the 102nd General Assembly. It's an agreement with AARP. In that Bill, the Secretary of State was going to conduct a study on the age-related changes that affect driving abilities and then could either raise or lower the 79 years after which a mandatory test is required. This simply, with an agreement of AARP, takes out the words 'or lower'. We agreed to do this. This was represented on the floor. And this is that technical change."

diversity program. It's a transparency Bill. It's going to provide more information throughout the state about the types of work that our insurers are doing with regards to their suppliers. I ask for an 'aye' vote."

Speaker Manley: "Chair recognizes Leader Keicher."

Keicher: "So, just quickly on this. If you can, Representative, revisit some of the opposition in debate that we had in the insurance committee, was centered around this being an additional burden for operators in the State of Illinois, correct?"

Morgan: "Yeah, we didn't really have much of a discussion about opposition. I think this is something that the industry understood the importance of doing. Vast majority of insurers currently already provide this kind of information voluntarily, publicly, in a variety of ways. This is a way for the Illinois Department of Insurance to collect this information so that the public can see it and so that we can, of course, scrutinize it for those that don't have voluntary supplier diversity programs. Almost all of them do."

Keicher: "And again, it's a... it's a mandate on a company to disclose their supplier, not the company itself?"

Morgan: "It's a mandate on the company to report their program. And for those that don't, what their procurement policies are. Again, to my knowledge, all of these entities is for insurance companies that have over $50 million in assets, which, again, is a pretty small subset. And those individual companies, to my knowledge, already have these programs."

Speaker Manley: "Representative Morgan... Chair recognizes Representative McLaughlin."

McLaughlin: "Thank you, Madam Speaker. Representative Morgan, this relates to private entities. Is that correct?"

Morgan: "Correct."

McLaughlin: "And so, we are asking private entities to place a premium on diversity and equity in their suppliers. I know there's a number of agencies that have rankings. Do you know what agency will be providing the ranking in this Bill? And what would be the minimum standard of supplier diversity that would be acceptable in this Bill?"

Morgan: "There's no standard with regards to what the companies do or don't do. It's about reporting what they do or don't do. So, in terms of a mandate, I don't think it's a mandate to report what you do or report that you don't do something. So, I think, in that sense, everyone would agree this is good information to provide. They do it or they don't. There's no consequence other than transparency, which, in and of itself, I think is peer pressure, which I think is a good thing. So, in and of itself, it's not a mandate for a company to do something different than they already do. It's disclosure of what they're doing."

energy systems in community associations. For example, this Bill provides that an energy policy statement may not condition approval of an application by an adjacent property owner, impose conditions and pairing the operation of a solar energy system, impose conditions negatively impacting any component industry standard warranty, or require any post-installation reporting. Windhorst: "Our analysis shows that the Community Associations Institute of Illinois attempted to work on some agreement. Did that ever come to fruition?"

Didech: "Yeah. So, this Bill was negotiated between the Illinois Solar Energy Associations and the Community Associations of Illinois. They worked together over about an eight-month period. Ultimately, we adopted every request by the Community Association Institute except one. So, we came very, very close to an agreed Bill. I know they have some concerns about one subsection to the Bill, but we do think that those provisions are important to implement the purpose of the Act."

Windhorst: "And did they state the nature of their additional request that was not added to the Bill?"

Didech: "Yes. So, the... the provision at issue is a Section 30, subsection (c). That's what we call the bad actor provision of the Bill. What it does, it's for community associations who are outright refusing to follow the law. That means they're refusing to adopt an energy policy statement, or they're refusing to even process an application. In those instances, homeowners are permitted to proceed with installing their solar energy systems."

Windhorst: "Thank you. I would urge a 'no' vote."

Speaker Hoffman: "Representative Reick."

Does this supersede the ability of the... or does this supersede the ability of the homeowners' associations bylaws to prohibit alterations to their... their respective units by allowing solar to be put in?"

Windhorst: "Thanks. Thank you. Representative Cassidy, we had some discussion in committee on this Bill and I think during that discussion... we don't think this provision is used very often under the law. Is that a fair statement to make, this jurisdiction... this jurisdictional provision?"

Cassidy: "It's actually unclear. I don't have any data on how often it was used."

Windhorst: "All right."

Cassidy: "We just know that it was used in this instance."

Windhorst: "In that one case?"

Cassidy: "The Supreme Court said the plain language of the law does support the actions of that state's attorney but that we shouldn't do it."

Windhorst: "And essentially what the law says is a local court in Illinois has jurisdiction over a juvenile who resides in their jurisdiction wherever that juvenile may be in the United States. Is that fair to say?"

Cassidy: "Yeah."

Windhorst: "And so, I... what we talked about in committee, we could... we talked about scenarios, potentially, where it would be beneficial to the minor and his or her family for Illinois to retain jurisdiction over events that occur out of state, particularly if a family were on vacations, for example, in Georgia or Florida. Rather than having to go back to that jurisdiction to handle and resolve the juvenile case, it could be handled and resolved in their home county. Do you recall that discussion?"

Windhorst: "And you don't feel that's justifiable to retain this provision?"

It also... double jeopardy doesn't prevent dual prosecution, so that Missouri prosecutor could do it too. So, this is... this is really about making sure that our laws align."

Windhorst: "Thank you. To the Bill."

Speaker Hoffman: "To the Bill."

Windhorst: "You know, this is a unique part of the law, as Representative Cassidy has illustrated. But there are instances, because we're involved with juvenile cases, when our state should retain jurisdiction over the case that occurs even out of state, sometimes for the benefit of the juvenile. As that Supreme Court case noted, there are times when the services that are available in Illinois are better than those that are available out of state. And we should allow the minor and the minor's family to be able to use those services through the court system. So, I would ask for a 'no' vote."

Speaker Hoffman: "Representative Cassidy to close."

Cassidy: "One other piece that is important to note in response to... to the Leader's assertions, expecting an Illinois attorney to be able to defend a juvenile under laws that aren't within our jurisdiction is also a challenge to ensure that those... those kids get good representation. So, for those reasons and so many more, I ask for an 'aye' vote."

Speaker Hoffman: "Representative Gong-Gershowitz."

Gong-Gershowitz: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. House Bill 2231 amends the Transportation Network Providers Act to eliminate the statutory common carrier exemption that TNCs, commonly known as rideshare or ride-hail companies, have enjoyed since 2015. Every other common carrier from taxi cabs to Ferris wheel operators owe their passengers the upmost duty of care the moment a rider relinquishes control for their own safety to the person at the wheel. The policy rationale for granting this statutory exemption nearly a decade ago no longer makes sense, and it's... it's extended use harms public safety. House Bill 2231 puts rideshare companies like Uber and Lyft on the same playing field as taxis and other common carriers. I ask for an 'aye' vote."

Bill, including, of course, those engaged in the business of rideshare. Was that opposition expressed in committee?"

Gong-Gershowitz: "It was. They had an opportunity to present."

Windhorst: "And what was the nature of their opposition?"

Gong-Gershowitz: "I think they like having a statutory exemption by virtue of Section 25(e) of the common... of the TNC Act because they enjoy protection from the upmost duty of care by virtue of the current statute."

Windhorst: "Are there any other states that have taken this same action as it relates to ridesharing?"

Gong-Gershowitz: "There are. In fact, Uber and Lyft are headquartered in California. And California treats rideshare companies as common carriers."

Windhorst: "Was there any concern expressed about the increase in cost affecting the ability of these companies to operate in Illinois or affecting their operations in Illinois?"

Gong-Gershowitz: "I don't want to speak, you know, to every point that the opposition made. You know, I would just say that, once a passenger steps into a car, it's our goal to ensure public safety and ensure that, once a rider gets into that car, they can ensure that the utmost standard of care applies to them whether they're in an Uber or Lyft or a taxi or any other common carrier."

Windhorst: "One of the reasons these entities have been so successful has been the costs involved aren't as great as they are with other entities. And so, by increasing regulations or burdens on business, then we may drive them out or make them less successful. And that... that could, in fact, impact their business and impact their operations in Illinois. To the Bill. Based on those impacts it may have on these companies and their ability to operate in Illinois, I would urge a 'no' vote."

Speaker Hoffman: "Representative Caulkins."

Caulkins: "Will the Sponsor yield?"

Speaker Hoffman: "She indicates she'll yield."

Caulkins: "Thank you. Representative, wasn't there just recently a court decision that these rideshare drivers are independent contractors?"

Gong-Gershowitz: "I'm not aware of any such case. And, in fact, the Illinois Appellate Court in Jane Doe v. Lyft made clear that that but for the statutory exemption granted by this Body in Section 25(e) of the Transportation Network Providers Act, TNCs are common carriers. And I just want to highlight for the Body the reason why the law imposes the utmost standard of care for common carriers. In that case by the Illinois Appellate Court, the courts said the app matched Doe with an Angelo McCoy, a driver in the Lyft network. A short time later, McCoy arrived at Doe's location and Doe got in the backseat of McCoy's vehicle. At some point during the ride, Doe fell asleep. McCoy then drove to a secluded alley where he brandished a knife, zip tied Doe's hands, and repeatedly sexually assaulted her. After the attack, McCoy drove away with Doe still in the backseat of his vehicle. Doe eventually escaped when McCoy stopped briefly for a traffic light. This case highlights the inherent danger that transportation network companies and other common carriers naturally, you know... I think what I'm getting at here is that the point is, that the reason why we have a higher standard of care, with respect to common carriers, is that the minute the passenger steps into that car, they are completely at the driver's mercy for their safety. There is... simply isn't a policy rationale to treat Uber and Lyft differently than every other private livery service. In fact, before the rideshare companies entered the market place, all private livery services, except taxi cabs, had to reserve those rides in advance. There's simply no rationale for treating Uber and Lyft differently in a day and age where they now dominate the industry. It's understandable that a decade ago, when this was something new and the businesses were just get started, that the General Assembly might've treated this differently. Uber and Lyft now, you know, for the next generation, are almost considered a verb. And the way that you hail them is the same as you can hail a taxi cab. You can use an app for that too. And that doesn't make a taxi cab not a common carrier."

103rd GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Caulkins: "Well, I'm reading that, on Monday, a California... California court upholds their proposition 20... 22, which this article says is a win for democracy and free markets in securing the status of delivery and rideshare drivers as independent contractors. The... when this... when this discussion was had in the General Assembly, all these things were sorted out. Why now? Why the change?"

Gong-Gershowitz: "I think we can all agree that the world has changed tremendously in the last decade. A decade ago, when I stepped out the door of my office building, I could raise my hand and easily hail a taxi cab. Today, I could just as easily go on an app to hail a taxi or an Uber or a Lyft in the same way. And frankly, the rationale for treating them differently just doesn't make sense. And, you know, we can argue whether or not somebody might be considered an independent contractor, but that's not actually the question that's before this Body today. I am sure that lawyers will argue theories of agency liability and independent contractors. What I'm asking this Body to decide is whether we create an exemption from the utmost duty of care to passengers for their safety by virtue of a statutory exemption from that standard of care. Look, we've seen recent statistics where less than 25 percent of 16-year-olds are bothering to get a driver's license these days. They rely on... on rideshare apps like Uber and Lyft to get from point A to point B. And the question I'm asking is, does this Body want to exempt those rideshare companies from exercising the utmost standard of care for our children's safety? That is the question we're answering here. We don't need to decide whether or not a court would ultimately find, as a matter of fact, that agency liability applied or whether or not they're an independent contractor. What I'm asking is, does this Body think that we should provide a statutory exemption and protection from the utmost duty of care for our children when they step into an Uber or a Lyft? I don't think so."

Caulkins: "I..."

Gong-Gershowitz: "I don't think that rationale applies."

Caulkins: "I appreciate your emotional appeal. I think that anyone that drives for Uber, Lyft, or a delivery service cares about their passengers. I would think... and I've ridden in many, as I'm sure you have... that they take the utmost care or they wouldn't be doing what they're doing. They wouldn't be in business for very long. That driver would get poor ratings and no one would hail them. So, I mean, this is... this is another attack on the free market. And... you know, I understand the emotional appeal, but that doesn't solve the problem. And so, to the Bill, Mr. Speaker."

Speaker Hoffman: "To the Bill."

Caulkins: "This is just another attack on the free market system. We've already sorted all of these issues out when we first started working on Uber, Lyft, and delivery services. And I would urge a 'no' vote."

Speaker Hoffman: "The Chair will institute a three-minute time limit. Representative Weber."

Weber: "Thank you, Chair. To the Bill. I'd just like to say, you know who can't call a taxi, is people that live out in the country where I live. There is no taxi service. If you're lucky, you may have few Uber drivers, a few Lyft drivers that may live in that area, often that they drive into the cities to work. So, sometimes these are the only sources of transportation that people that don't live in the bigger cities have. You know, you get the impression that there's... there's no way, you know, to get damages. But every Uber, Lyft, they all have requirements for the amounts of insurance that these drivers have to carry with them. And I don't think there's a single one of us that gets inside an Uber or a Lyft vehicle and doesn't realize that we're in someone's private vehicle. You know, the taxi companies, you know, pay for repairs, they show up, they have time clocks, everything else. A Lyft driver might drive one hour a month. They might drive

20 hours a week. You know, it's up to them. There's no one that they're checking in with and have to put in the time. That is why they're independent, not employees. This is about money, being able to go after a bigger company for a bigger paycheck. I urge everyone to vote 'no'."

Speaker Hoffman: "Representative Ammons."

Ammons: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the Bill. I rise in support of the passage of this Bill. Not only is it similar to what was just mentioned, that rideshare companies have generated multiple millions of dollars that most of it does not get passed on to those rideshare independent contractors, as they describe them as. This Bill will not change from being independent contractors. What it will do, though, is make sure that Lyft, Uber, and any other rideshare company has the same standard that any other company has. And 10 years ago, when this was established, my concern about rideshares at that time was that they would eliminate an industry in this... that case, taxi cabs, that provide jobs in low-income communities for many, many people. And because rideshare is available now, this particular Bill, which I believe is very, very important, establishes the duty of care on Lyft and Uber and the large companies who are making multiple millions of dollars off of people driving for their own... in their own cars, at their own expense, where they take majority of the money. And we've seen across the nation where rideshare independent contractors have been trying to organize around this level of exploitation they've experienced. And so, I stand thanking the Representative for bringing this Bill, for setting the stage and the standard to equalize in this industry, and yes, to make sure that there is someone to be accountable when things... and there are many cases that have happened under the independent contractor verbiage that protects these large companies, ultimately, from liability. And so, I urge a 'yes' vote for this Bill."

Speaker Hoffman: "Representative Reick."

Reick: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Will the Sponsor yield?"

Speaker Hoffman: "She indicates she'll yield."

Reick: "Representative, I'd like to... rather get into the independent contractor and all that, I would like to discuss the distinction between a taxi cab company, which as has been described as the repairs and all that stuff on cabs and things like that, with an Uber or Lyft driver. In the for... in the context of the common-law notion of the responsibility of an invitee, rather than an agent, you... like a taxi... like a Lyft driver would be, I believe it would be... how do you distinguish between the invitee nature of a taxi cab company? Because I believe that, as a... as a taxi cab rider, you are an invitee of the actual company. Whereas, in the issue of a Lyft driver or an Uber driver, you are the invitee of that driver. So, can you distinguish between those two or is there a distinction here that needs to be... needs to be drawn?"

Gong-Gershowitz: "Representative, I'm going to have to ask for clarification on your question. I'm not familiar with invitee, you know, as it's... you know, as you're defining it."

Reick: "Well, the common-law notion... the common-law notion of duty to a third party is it depends upon what... what relationship between that person and the contracting person has. You know, we went to law school, come on. And I went a lot longer ago than you did. I remember this stuff. So, but if I... if I get into your car and you're driving for a taxi cab company, and I've called the cab company or I've hailed you on the street, I am basically expecting that the... that I am the invitee of the taxi cab company and you're a mere agent or employee of that company. If I call Uber or Lyft, they're just facilitating the... the relationship between us for that one particular purpose. In your private car, I am your invitee. So, you owe me the highest duty of care. I guess I want to know is, is there a distinction here that must be drawn between invitee of the taxi cab company versus invitee of the individual who's driving his own car to pick me up and take me some place?"

Gong-Gershowitz: "Okay. I think the issue that we're having is you're applying the wrong analysis to this situation. Invitee of... you know, as I'm familiar with that doctrine, applies more to real property and whether or not you invited, for example, somebody onto your property. Maybe you have a nuisance like a pool. And so, there's a higher standard of care. This is a commercial space, think UCC. What we're talking about here, you know... I'm guessing, if there were particular facts with respect to how much control a company had over their driver... and we could go into all the factors, which I think mitigate in favor of a Uber or Lyft driver not being independent contractor but actually being controlled much like an algorithmic manager, with respect to how drivers accept riders, how fares are set, which they have no control over. But the fact of the matter is that I know I've heard a lot about how Uber and Lyft are just tech companies. Once that passenger... regardless of how you hail that cab, right, whether you put up your hand or you tap an app or you call a private livery service... and those, are by the way, common carriers. Once you step in that car, that is when higher duty of care attaches because the duty of care is based on the lack of control that the passenger has for their own safety. So, with all due respect, I just think you're applying the wrong legal analysis to this commercial situation."

Reick: "Well, I... okay, I'll respectfully differ. To the Bill."

Speaker Hoffman: "To the Bill."

Reick: "I think this is a very close call, and I'll... and I'll grant you that. But I do believe that there is an analogy to be drawn here, even though, as you properly say, this is mostly about the invitee thing, generally applies to real estate. But it doesn't necessarily apply only to real estate. So, I believe that what we're looking at here is a distinction between the relationship of the person with the... with the entity that is actually providing the service. And I believe that's the analogy that probably should apply. It's a close call, but I don't believe I can support your Bill at this point. Thank you."

Speaker Hoffman: "Representative McLaughlin."

McLaughlin: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Very short question. And, Representative, I know I asked this in committee, but I can't remember what the response was because I think there was a question. So... and I do thank God every day I didn't go to law school, Representative Reick and Representative, but I just get straight to the point. In common carrier, it's defined as an obligation to serve and pick up the general public. If I have a private ride contracted with Lyft or Uber, can they suspend that contract to pick up someone that's hailing them down in the street and disrupt that private contracted service?"

Gong-Gershowitz: "The app is open to public... to the public. You have to join the app. And actually, that... I would disagree that that is what distinguishes a common carrier."

McLaughlin: "I... I actually read it out of my cell phone in legal app. So, I'll... that app probably gave me the wrong definition. But again, not being a lawyer, I'll accept your word for that. Also, you mentioned the app and the technology. Do current common carrier cab companies not also utilize apps for rides and pickups?"

Gong-Gershowitz: "They do."

McLaughlin: "So, we are differentiating between the two, or you're using that as part of your analysis on why they should be treated the same?"

Gong-Gershowitz: "It was the General Assembly that differentiated and actually gave Uber and Lyft a common carrier exemption by statute. The Illinois Appellate Court has said that, but for that statutory exemption, they would be a common carrier just like a Ferris wheel operator, a livery service, a taxi, a train. So, the question that's before this Body is whether or not this Body continues to grant a certain business that exemption from the highest duty of care."

McLaughlin: "Thank you for the response. And can I request a roll call vote? Thank you."

Speaker Hoffman: "Representative Ann Williams."

Speaker Hoffman: "She indicates she'll yield."

Williams, A.: "You know, I was thinking about the arguments that I heard in committee about this Bill and also on the floor today. And it's clear we are very much overcomplicating this issue. Can you give a few other examples, which I think you just highlighted, as to some other things that are considered common carriers in the law?"

Gong-Gershowitz: "Sure, be happy to. Ferris wheels, trains, taxi cabs, livery.. for hire livery services. Again, common carrier doctrine, basically attaching to... attaching a higher standard of care because of the fact that the passenger is completely at the mercy of the operator, driver, in this case, for their safety."

Williams, A.: "True. And I think elevators have been held to be that as well. So, you certainly can't hail an elevator or you can't hail a plane. But the... the analogy, really, is between a cab and a taxi and an Uber. They are the exact same thing. In Chicago where I live, we've virtually seen the taxi cabs disappear and we've replaced that almost entirely with Uber and Lyft. That's how you get from place to place. The opposition arguments were, I'd say, bordering on absurd. I mean, to say that this about tech and this is a tech company is really... really just not accurate. So, how... it's not how you get there. It's you're getting in the car and you're going from place to place. So, again, it's a duty to protect passengers with the highest duty of care. It's obviously the same thing in a cab as it is in an Uber or Lyft. I'm strongly in support of this very commonsense Bill."

Hernandez, N.: "As we still celebrate Women's History Month, I'd like to highlight Sylvia Mendez, who is a Mexican and Puerto Rican American civil rights activist who was instrumental to a landmark segregation case of Mendez v. Westminster. She was born in 1936. At the age of eight, she was denied enrollment at whites-only elementary school in Orange County, California, which was part of the Westminster School District. Mendez was told she could not enroll at a nearby school established specifically for Hispanic children, which consisted only of a two-room wooden shack. White children went to school in a modern building with many more amenities. Mendez's parents sued and the case made its way to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, which upheld a lower court ruling which sided with the Mendez family. Westminster had attempted to justify their segregation policy by claiming that Hispanic children were deficient in English and therefore could not succeed in the same classroom with white children. Following the Ninth Circuit Court ruling, the Governor of California ordered California public schools to admit Hispanic students, ending school segregation for Hispanic children in California almost eight years before Brown v. Board of Education and establishing an important precedent that led to future change. The Mendez family were assisted by a number of organizations, including the NAACP, which was represented at the time by future Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall. Earl Warren, the Governor who desegregated California schools, later became Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and presided when Brown was decided. Sylvia Mendez was eventually able to attend the school which initially refused to enroll her. It wasn't easy, and she faced harassment and bigotry. She fought through, however, wanting to succeed after all that had happened. Sylvia Mendez became a nurse and worked in her field for 30 years. Today, at age 86, she lives in Fullerton, California with her 2 adopted daughters. She travels and gives lectures on the historic contributions of her parents and their co-plaintiffs for the cause of desegregation. Sylvia Mendez's story reminds us that the bigotry and the injustice can only be changed when we refuse to accept them. There will always be an easier way, but the way to better the world lies in meeting adversity head on and persisting in the face of it. Gender and racial equality require each of us to act with intention against the status quo. In honor of Women's History Month and the example set by

That woman is Joanne Mariani, and she was the first Illinois female State Trooper. She was born October 28, 1924, in Cumberland, Maryland. Joanne began her 10-week training course at the Illinois State Police Training Academy on May 10, 1963. Back then, the police academy operator operated on a 7-day work week, often training 14 hours a day. This alone tells you how tough she was and how tough it needed to be to be a police officer back then. During her time at the Academy, she resided the... at some family members nearby while her classmates were quarantined in the barracks. Upon graduation from the Illinois State Police Academy, Mariani became the first woman trooper in the Illinois State Police and was affectionately called a 'Trooperette'. Mariani was a mother of three while enrolled at the Illinois State Police Academy and brought her eight years of experience from the Evanston Police Department as a patrol officer. In Evanston, she was regularly dealt with crimes involving women, children, and young girls. While with the State Police, she was assigned to District 3 as a plain clothes detective available for special assignment until her resignation in 1968. She passed away on July 7, 1992, at the age of 67. Thank you, Joanne, for stepping up to serve and protect the people of Illinois."
